

January 2016

HISS meets at the Montgomery County Health Department after school for one and a half hours every other week. At least two Montgomery County Health Department Staff Members will always be present.

At each meeting different topics will be used to present every day situations where difficulties could occur. The staff will present ways for the kids to handle these difficulties and then time will be given to practice these new skills.

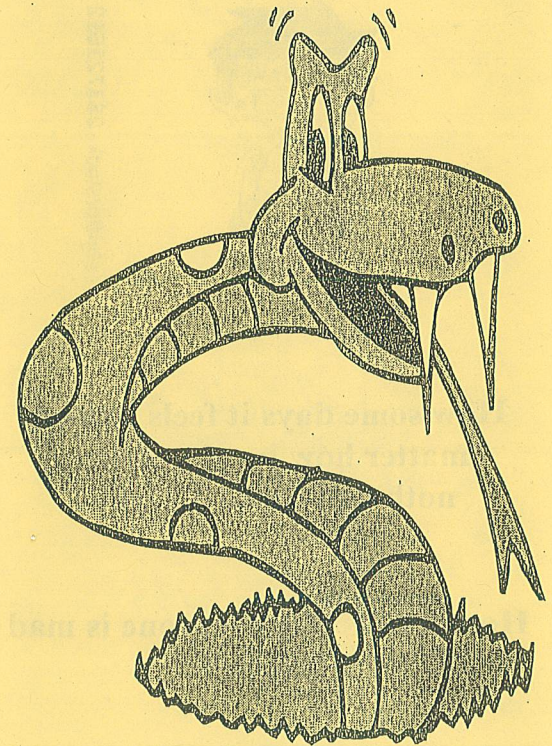

Time will also be set aside for fun/social interaction that will allow the kids to develop the skills they need as well as develop some peer supports.

At times, outings will be planned to allow the kids to practice these skills in the community. We also present classes on topics such as hygiene, safety, and interpersonal skills.

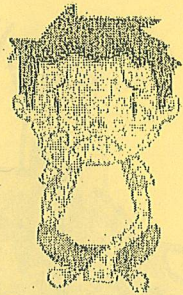

Meetings are at:

Happiness in Social Skills

You know how sometimes you feel like you just don't fit in?

How some days it feels like no matter how hard you try, nothing you do is right?

How some days it feels like no matter how hard you try, nothing you do is right?

How it feels like everyone is mad at you?

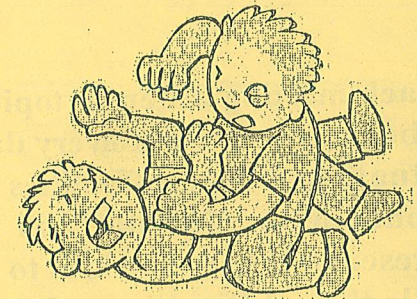

We do.

We can help you feel better. We can help you regain that feeling that you can be happy.

And that you can do right.

HISS is a therapy group for kids who are having trouble at home, school, in public. The problem could be with listening to parents or teachers, following rules and directions, or just playing well with friends/brothers/sisters.

The aim of HISS is to not only teach the skills to help with this, but to allow kids to be able to practice these skills with other children in a safe environment.
